Hoover Told Sierra Madre Is White Spot

This City First in America to Attain 100 Per Cent in Employment

The statement of Mayor Al Myers in THE NEWS, to the effect that there was "not one idle man in Sierra Madre," has disclosed the fact that Sierra Madre is the first city in America to attain a one hundred percent stage of perfection while Communists and the unemployed are staging threatening demonstrations in many sections.

Both the Mayor and THE NEWS have received letters and telegrams of congratulation from individuals and civic organizations. The response to the announcement was so spontaneous that Mayor Myers decided that the situation justified a report to President Hoover.

The following telegram, signed by the Mayor, was dispatched on Tuesday of this week:

Hon. Herbert Hoover,
White House,
Washington, D. C.
In response to your expressed wish that all communities endeavor to relieve the unemployment situation by promoting public work, Sierra Madre is pleased to report that there is not a single able-bodied citizen idle in Sierra Madre. We are proud to be the first community to attain this degree of perfection.

Al Myers,
Mayor of Sierra Madre.
City Engineer Lynde reports that the city is trying to find employment for all applicants on the extension of the water system.

400 Entered for Tomorrow's Hike Up Mt. Wilson Trail

The Mt. Wilson climb, postponed from the fifteenth to the twenty-second on account of bad weather, will definitely take place tomorrow, March 22. The army of hikers enrolled for the event will not be disappointed again and they may gird their loins for the test. Nearly 400 have filed their entry cards.

The official timers and starters from the A.A.U. will be on the job to see that everything is conducted properly. From THE NEWS office to the end of the race at Trail Inn flags will be placed at intervals to prevent any over-zealous marathoner from shortening the path to victory.

Henry Greger, chairman of the finance committee, states that a relay race between the Boy Scout troops of St. Rita's and the Congregational Church is planned for Saturday.

The race itself will be a competition of each runner against the element of time rather than any other hiker. The purpose of the event, according to Mr. Hartman, President of the Sierra Madre Boosters Club, is to stimulate a healthy interest in hiking, and the large number of starters testifies that it is very effectively serving this purpose. Over one hundred contestants will start the race. Starters may leave THE NEWS office any time from six A. M. to six P. M.

Mayor Al Myers issued orders at the City Hall yesterday to have the city flags out and merchants in the downtown district were asked to show their interest in tomorrow's event with some decorations.

Judge Hardy Talks About Crime At the Kiwanis Club Meet

Kiwanis Ladies' Night Tuesday at the Woman's Club House at 7 was an extremely jolly and informal affair, stressing the usual camaraderie of the organization. Thirty-eight guests were seated at a "U" shaped table, attractively decorated with vases of spring flowers, anemones in pastel colorings, iris and stocks, with lighted tapers of green. President Klunk presided as toastmaster and much merriment came from fines imposed for various "misdeamors."

Judge Carlos P. Hardy, of the Los Angeles County Superior Court, emphasized that modern crime conditions challenge any civilization.

Lovetta Hicks Pratt followed Judge Hardy's talk by a well interpreted reading in her pleasing manner, a cutting from Booth Tarkington's "Penrod" and an encore of a small boy getting ready for bed.

J. L. Asbury sent in his resignation to the Kiwanis Club, which was accepted with regrets as expressed by President Klunk. Geo. B. Morgridge led in the community singing.

Bridge and cootie were played. Mrs. Lawless and Mrs. Klunk receiving high scores at bridge for ladies, George Morgridge and Waverly Pratt honors for men and Mr. Tuttle high score for cootie.

Four Candidates File As City Campaign Opens

Registration Shows 1561 Citizens Qualified to Pick Officials

Right on the heels of the closing of the season for the registration of voters the municipal campaign opened this morning when three candidates for the City Council and one for City Clerk filed their nominating petitions at the City Hall. The election will be held on Monday, April 14. Only a few days remain in which candidate's petitions may be filed, so that the campaign will be short—whether or not it is furious.

Meanwhile there will be a school election on March 28 when a trustee will be chosen. The term of Mrs. Cecily A. Allen expires shortly. Other members of the board have commended Mrs. Allen for faithful service and expect that she will be re-elected.

Just 1561 citizens are qualified by registration to vote at the approaching election as against

The local campaigns in most of the foothill and valley towns have been under way for a couple of weeks. Some of them are already waning. In several there is a large field of candidates and a free-for-all, while in others the battle is being waged between just two factions with opposing tickets, or slates.

The registration completed a week ago to-day in Sierra Madre is shown here by election precincts:

The registration for that memorable event was taken in 1928, however, and it is said to be doubtful whether there will not be more votes cast this than last year, because of the change in population between the actual registration and last year's election.

The three sitting Councilmen whose terms expire this year—H. Clay Reavis, Lester K. Layton and William R. Lees—are the Council candidates to file this morning for four-year terms. City Clerk Elmer A. Green, now filling that position by appointment, is a candidate for the unexpired two years of the term for which his predecessor was elected.

On the petition of William R. Lees are the names of J. O.

Dream Fails Dr. Davis In Last Hours

Indiana Minister Tries to Stand Erect Near End And Collapses

Dr. Leonard B. Davis, a former Indiana minister, living in Sierra Madre, passed away Tuesday morning at his home, 313 North Mountain Trail.

"I had a dream last night," he told his wife the day before his death. "I was sitting in my chair and suddenly I was lifted up. I didn't have to try to get up. I was just lifted up. I felt like shouting aloud."

For the fortnight preceding his death, Dr. Davis was convinced that he was getting better. "I feel wonderful," he told his friends, "I know I'll be able to get up soon and walk."

A few hours before his death he actually got up, weak as he was, and tried to stand erect. His faith was great but the flesh was unable to stand the strain.

Dr. Davis was born in Yanketown, Ind. 31 years ago. After a short period of service in the war, he studied for the Baptist ministry. His health broke down under the strain of study and mission work. He lived in Los Angeles from 1921 to 1929 and for the last year in this city. While here he was affiliated with the American Legion. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Lillian B. Davis, and two children, Pauline and Alice Jean.

The funeral services will be conducted at 1 o'clock today from the Ray A. Grant Funeral Parlors. Mrs. Davis will leave with the children to take the body to the family plot at Mt. Vernon, Indiana, for burial.

City's Thanks Go With the Garden Prize

Civic Bodies Grateful for Achievement of the Anderson

Evan Anderson and his mother, Martha Anderson, of Sunnyside Ave., who brought the bacon home to Sierra Madre in the State-wide contest for the best small garden in California are to be recognized by the Chamber of Commerce, the City Council and other organizations. Mr. Anderson won first prize in the competition that has resulted in his half acre here being known as the state's "garden spot."

At its meeting this week the Chamber of Commerce, on motion of W. R. Humphries, appointed a committee to prepare a suitable resolution to be acted upon at the next meeting. R. R. Hartman was appointed chairman of the committee. Mayor Al Myers says that every member of the City Council has gone on record as favoring similar action by the City and that the Council will undoubtedly take formal action.

"It was an outstanding achievement on the part of Mr. Anderson and his mother," said the Mayor, "and the city should express its gratitude in an official and emphatic manner. I am sure that all of our citizens feel just like that about it."

The Chamber of Commerce at its meeting reluctantly accepted the resignation of Joe R. Eastwood from the presidency of that organization. It was presented at a previous meeting when it was placed on the table in the hope that Mr. Eastwood would reconsider. This Mr. Eastwood felt unable to do. He had served since the first of the year and during his administration showed rare tact and judgment in handling the chamber's affairs and vision as to the future needs of Sierra Madre.

Two Julian Case Jurors Indicted With Four Others

The Los Angeles county grand jury expedited action yesterday in the Julian bribery case by indicting six persons, including two jurors. Those indicted were S. C. Lewis, former president of the Julian Petroleum Co., Jacob Berman, the "bright youngster" of the blowup, Louis Bergman, his brother, Detective Louis Krause, and Jurors Frank Grider and John B. Groves. They are charged with being involved in the bribery of the jury which acquitted Lewis, Jacob Berman, and six others in the Julian criminal conspiracy cases two years ago. Juror Groves is alleged to have received $5000 and Berman is said to have bought Juror Grider's house for the exorbitant price of $18,000.

Chloe Jones' Ashes Cast Over Pacific

Friend Carries Remains of Noted Teacher to Sea to Carry Out Pledge

Life is just like that—just around the corner you find truth stranger than fiction. There is the home of Chloe Jones at 102 North Hermosa street. Chloe Jones is dead. And so is the house, and the trees and the rose bushes. Take a look at them. The doors are locked, silence and dust inhabit the rooms. The little old rocker that oft held her frail form as she sat through the lonely hours of her eighty-six years, looks gross in its emptiness.

The exterior is drear, drab, clothed in a gloom the blazing sun can't make glisten. The trees and vines and bushes are drooping, bowed in the absence of the spirit of the tiny 100-pound woman who animated them with a touch, or her presence. One lone rose hangs inviting the wind to scatter its petals. The path around the house leads nowhere, now. There isn't a hand to stay the weeds in the chicken run. Death has given the devil grass life.

Tomorrow Mrs. H. H. Mayberry, of Alhambra, will carry the ashes of Mrs. Jones out on the Pacific and cast to the winds sweeping the sea the dust from whence it came. There will be no services, no ceremony, no music. It will be done that way in compliance with the oft-expressed wish of the noted teacher—that her ashes be consigned to the sea, to join those of her daughter, Alma Jones.

In a few days the will will be filed for probate.

Who will get the fortune that Mrs. Jones built out of the twenty-acre ranch she acquired in Sierra Madre fifty odd years ago at a price very small lot now? The first woman to become superintendent of the Los Angeles schools, the woman who had the children plant in the downtown district, the pepper trees that vie with the Wistaria in making Sierra Madre famous, met the final curtain with the courageous spirit that had marked her entire life.

When Alma died ten years ago there was little left in life for the mother. She lived on alone in the old house, potted around the yard a little, had few visitors. Most of her time was devoted to the study of genealogy.

A few weeks before the end, when Mrs. Jones' strength declined, and she was unable to meet the tax of the few chores about the house, she sent for two friends, Mrs. H. H. Mayberry, of Alhambra, and Miss Ida B. Lindley, of Los Angeles. She was re- (Continued on Page Ten)

Sailplane Sierra Madre Christened and Launched As City Takes Holiday

Short Flight In the Air Proves that the Aircraft Is Perfectly Balanced and Ready for Real High Wind Test at Redondo Sunday Morning

The Sierra Madre, world's largest sailplane, designed and built by Adolf Frederick Kelterborn in Sierra Madre, was christened and had its first baptism in the air yesterday under the sponsorship of THE NEWS. From early in the morning until noon all roads leading to the Stocker ranch, off Live Oak avenue, were crowded with cars and pedestrians. The city practically took a holiday. The primary school and St. Rita's parochial school released the children and they flocked to the field. The great crowd was a unit in wishing that the conditions would favor a successful launching, but the king of the winds failed to produce a breeze sufficient to take the bird-like structure into the air for a real test.

After the christening ceremony, which took place at 10:30 o'clock, Kelterborn supervised a test of the starting ropes. There was nothing to do then but wait for a suitable wind. Along about noon the wind spurted and Kelterborn decided to make a trial. The lines were stretched out. Herbert Munsen, Harold Burns, Sydney Davis, Charles Penders, Marvin Webster and Jack Butler, took hold of one end, and Charles Peterson, Pio Lorenzen, Dutch Larson, Bud Marsh and Frank Lovell, the other end. They walked until the ship began to tremble under the strain of the pull.

Kelterborn, sitting at the controls, gave the word to let go and the Sierra Madre glided forward into the air. The wind, however, was too light to hold it up. For a few seconds it balanced perfectly in the air, and then dropped gracefully to the ground.

Real Test Coming
"I managed to prove what I wanted to know," said Kelterborn, when he stepped from his seat. "The important thing was to learn if the ship is properly balanced and I had to take the air to find that out. I am fully satisfied now that the ship is scientifically right, and more confident than ever that it will master the high winds when it meets them."

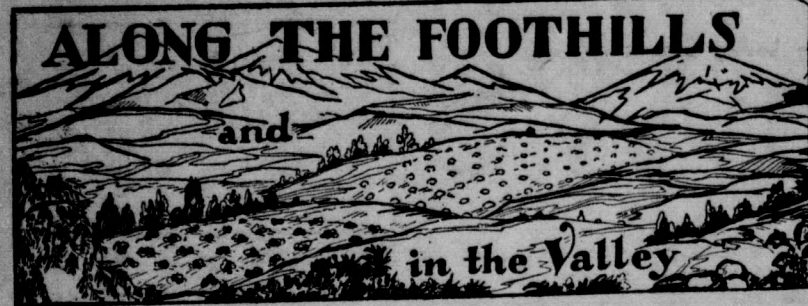

The real test of the Sierra Madre will be made at Redondo, at the foot of the Palos Verdes hills, early next Sunday morning. Strong winds prevail there most of the time. Winds sweeping in from the Pacific hit the foothill of Palos Verdes and provide the lifting capacity that the Sierra Madre requires. The ship has a wing surface of 300 square feet, the largest in the world. The wing spread is 59.9 feet. With Kelterborn in the seat it weighs 450 pounds and to get a fair start it must hit the wind at a ten-mile speed. The actual christening of the Sierra Madre was performed by Miss Muriel Tarr of 274 West Montecito, with a bunch of wistaria provided by Miss Jessie Ward. At the last moment it was discovered that the famous vine owned by Mrs. Estelle Fennel, and which is the center of attraction every year during the Wistaria Fete, was not quite in blossom. Miss Ward discovered a small bunch in flower on the side of her own home and came to the rescue.

Planes Drop In
The event attracted photographers from the Associated Press and all Los Angeles and Pasadena newspapers. When Miss Tarr touched the nose of the aircraft with the blossoms she was surrounded by Mayor Al Myers, L. R. Goshorn, editor and publisher of THE NEWS, Adolf Kelterborn, who sat in his seat holding the controls, and Albert Belohlavek, who was Kelterborn's chief aide in building the ship. Miss Tarr displayed fitting modesty and unusual patience while the photographers snapped a score of poses from every angle.

The crowd thinned out when it was announced that the wind was not sufficient for an immediate trial. The school children fled off the field showing keen disappointment. During the afternoon a dozen or more airplanes visited the field. Most of them swept low over the Sierra Madre and were content to take a look from the air, but four of the airplanes circled the field and landed. The landing quartet came from Foothill Field, Monrovia. T. J. Phillips, well known as the "Flying Cop," led the squadron. The other aviators, all instructors at the Foothill Field, were Harold West, Glenn Smith, Nick Lentine, Bill Parsons, and D. J. Robertson.

Kelterborn kept the ship on the field until 4 o'clock in the hope of finding sufficient wind for a real trial, but was forced to give up. The plane was then dismantled, loaded on the specially built trailer, and Kelterborn's assistants remain until when it will be christened.

First actual steps towards making Foothill boulevard an 80-foot thoroughfare thru Upland has been taken by the Council of that city which has begun condemnation proceedings for the necessary land.

The first unit of the new road through the Sierra Madre mountains from La Canada valley to the Palmdale desert will be completed within the next five or six weeks, according to the La Crescenta Valley Ledger.

There are more Boy Scouts in Upland than in any city in the country nearly its size, according to The Upland News which is leading a campaign for funds with which to carry on Scout activities.

Rev. John A. Glasse, of the Arcadia Community church, has in preparation a series of articles covering the history of the growth of the sunrise service idea. This year's Arcadia Easter sunrise service will be held on Mount Oakwood.

The Duarte-Monrovia orange growers are jubilant over the news that the grade of oranges shipped by them had been sold in Pittsburgh, Pa. for $9 a box on 288 size fruit. The price runs close to the record of $10-a-box oranges.

Arcadia's new swimming pool awaits approval by the taxpayers by a postal card vote. There is sufficient ground for the pool adjacent to the tennis court and baseball ground at First avenue and Huntington drive. The money for the work is available.

Plans for the new administration and library building to be erected at the elementary school plant on Huntington Drive, San Marino, for the San Marino school district have been approved by A. P. Hill, chief of the division of school house planning for the state.

The voters of San Fernando at a special bond election have just turned down the proposal to build a new city hall on a bond issue of $100,000. With a two-thirds vote necessary for approval, the proposal received only one more than a majority of the votes cast, 551 voting in the negative.

Mayor Albert N. Chamnes, of Whittier, has been elected a director of the Los Angeles County Conservation Association. The association is an organization devoted to a program of coordinating the effort and activities of various organizations and agencies on a comprehensive plan of water conservation.

The Gelndora Chamber of Commerce is not going to "bite off more than it can chew," according to a program adopted by the board of directors. The plans contemplate a general education program, a survey of needed improvements, investigation of needed sewerage disposal methods, vacant lot cleanups and planting of wild flowers and a membership of 200.

There are 2,500,000 rose bushes growing in Puente's 80-acre garden. J. H. van Barneveld, talked about them at a Rotary club luncheon. Long, patient work is required to get the right results and it sometimes takes several years to bring a rose into full bloom. Last year it required 22 refrigerators to handle the roses sent from Puente to Eastern Markets.

The Pasadena Board of education ordered immediate construction of a $250,000 junior high school in Altadena. Architects Marston and Maybury are drawing the plans. The location is North Alhambra avenue. The school is expected to be ready for occupancy by September 1931. Unexpected growth of the district has forced the construction of the fifth junior high school two years before it had been planned.

The necessity for water conservation is urgent, P. H. Gray, a director of the conservation association, told the Covina Legion post the other night. Water levels are dropping lower everywhere he said. Wells along the immediate coast line that are operated by cities and large corporations, are pumping from a depth that is from 60 to 80 feet below sea level. All wells in the agricultural and orchard districts are showing alarming new depths from which the water is raised.

B. S. Moss, New York theatrical magnate, is reported to have purchased an option on a theater site on Green street in Pasadena. The estimated cost of the site is $800,000.

Eva, daughter of the famous movie lion, Numa, started the lion farm at El Monte by giving birth to four white cubs. Charles Gay says he never heard of white lions, and these are the first of 200 cubs born at the Gay farm that didn't have regulation tawny hides. The mother killed two of the cubs before the attendants could interfere.

Two candidates, Hall Eastman and a Roy D. Stone are left in the Monrovia school board election. Dr. D. Gleeten has announced his withdrawal.

Taking the place of Mrs. Q. E. Winkler, who leaves to reside in Kansas, C. S. Eberly has been appointed a member of the Arcadia Library Board. Mr. Eberly is president of the City Planning Commission.

Col. Hersey Orders Finest Weather for Sierra Madre Folks

"Col. Hersey here orders the weather for us in Sierra Madre, and, of course, he makes it the finest in the world," said E. J. Webster, of 121 Alegria street, as he shook hands with Col. Hersey in THE NEWS office.

"Well, it is as nearly perfect as we can make it," said Col. Hersey, the government weather forecaster for Southern California. "I think it is about the best to be had anywhere."

"I know it is," said Webster. "I have been in every country in the world, excepting four, and the nearest thing to Sierra Madre is to be found at Algiers. There they have the background of snow covered mountains and the desert nearby, too. The island of Sicily, overlooking the Straits of Messina, comes close to it, and on the south side of Africa, near the coast of Madeira, the climate is almost identical. For pleasant surroundings, healthful ozone, and all-year round climate there is no place in the world to equal Sierra Madre."

Mr. Webster is noted as a traveler. Every year he spends four months on the go, one year starting East and the alternate year West. He has seen the sunrise on Mt. Everest and dined in the palace of the King of Siam.

Helping the Boys

Greater cooperation between the 275 posts of the American Legion in California with the National Council of Boy Scouts will be the object of a conference to be held at Pasadena, March 22 between James E. West of New York, National Boy Scout executive, and representatives of the American Legion. Boy Scout troops are now being sponsored in greater number by American Legion posts throughout California than in any other state.

Miss Claire Newman and a party of friends will spend the week-end motoring to the Imperial Valley. They will cross the mountains to San Diego and return by the Coast Highway.

Robertson, president, and Mrs. W. H. Wolf as co-hostesses.

Mrs. E. H. Walford, well known Los Angeles and Hollywood producer, read the G. Martinez Sierra play, "The Romantic Young Lady," now playing at the Civic Repertory Theater.

A clever review of Moliere's play "The Imaginary Invalid" was given by Mrs. H. A. N. Addis of this city. This play will be the fifth effort of the Civic Repertory Theater, starring Rudolph Schildkraut.

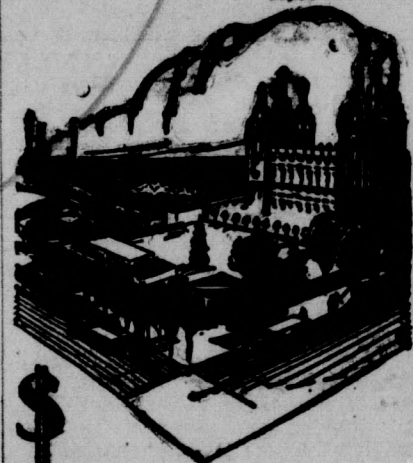

A delightful breakfast was served to guests at 10 o'clock by the hostesses, from individual tables in the drawing room and patio. Decorations and service were in the St. Patrick motif.

Mrs. J. Milton Steinberger, chairman of the section, announced the Motion Picture Conference to be held at Carthay Circle Theater at 10 a. m. today.

El. M. Scofield, member of the Water Board of Los Angeles, who has been for a long time a student of municipal affairs, will speak at the Dr. Frederick W. Roman Forum next Monday night on the Water and Power Situation. The meeting is open to the public.

Attention is called to the last lesson of the series in ballroom dancing to be given at the club-house on Saturday night at 8 o'clock. Miss Klass suggests that each member bring a parent or a friend of the opposite sex, so that dance numbers may be balanced. Laura E. Cadmus, Press Chairman.

Rainfall Here Five Inches Above Last Year's Mark

Rainfall figures secured from the City Engineer's office show that the precipitation up to date in Sierra Madre is almost twice that for the same period last year, also eclipsing the records set for the first three months of 1927 and 1928. The mark of 12.38 set so far this year exceeds by almost five inches the figure for the first three months of 1929. This year saw a precipitation of 6.60 for January. February fell off to a meager .67 inch. Figures compiled up to the eleventh of the current month show a fall of 5.11 for this period. In the storm of the fifteenth of this month, a precipitation of 2.84 inches was recorded.

HIKE STARTED COMRADES

The Spartan Comrades Club of the Congregational Church is the outgrowth of a boys' week-end trip, it was revealed today. The leaders of the trip were Dwight Welch, Monrovia Y.M.C.A. secretary, and Arthur Holmes, affiliated with the Congregational church boys' work. The boys hiked to the Red Triangle Cabin in San Gabriel Canyon. The two leaders explained to them the purpose of the Comrades and in a few weeks a local organization was on foot.

Local Players Score In Two Clever Skits

At a membership meeting of the Community Players held last Friday night at 8 p. m. at the old Congregational Church, a clever marionette show was presented by Billy Lyon of South Pasadena, assisted by David Allen of this city. After this highly amusing show, the players presented two one-act plays. The cast of the first, "Modesty," by Paul Hervien, included Helen Hill, portraying admirably the heroine, Nita; Stafford Sadler, whose interpretation of Jack, the successful lover, carried conviction, and Randolph Wood, as Albert, who lost Nita through his poor knowledge of human nature.

The second play, "Spirals," from the pen of Marion L. Nelson, presented the unfortunate situation of two lovers who lost one another and were doomed to wander in circles, sometimes passing each other within a stone's throw, but never meeting. The part of Anita, the woman, was played by Cecily Allen; and that of the man, John, by Hall Perry. Both of these roles were difficult but the two principals played them with restraint and understanding. Supporting players were Yvonne Adams, as the best friend of Anita; John Osgood, as a friend of John; and James

HELPING CENSUS MAN WILL HELP YOUR CITY

"When the census man rings your doorbell be prepared to answer his questions and Sierra Madre will be able to annex another record. Ralph Stewart, who will direct the enumerators in this city, Aracida and Temple City, says cooperation will greatly expedite the work. The questions will all be simple which can be answered from memory, unless you are a farm operator. In that case you will be asked for records which should not be guessed at. You can obtain a sample Farm Schedule by writing to Ralph Stewart.

The enumerators will make their first calls on April 2. If you will be away at that time you can receive an "absent family schedule" and mail in the Hawks, as a waiter in the inn where the act is laid. Kenneth Funk of THE NEWS was initiated into the circle of the players. An outstanding New York production is scheduled for the next presentation.

information in advance to the local supervisor. Unless you do this the census report for your home district will be less than it should be.

WENT TO THE ANIMAL FAIR

The 24 boys and girls of Mrs. Wheeler's 6A class who had the privilege Tuesday afternoon of visiting the Luna Park Zoo in Los Angeles, came back thrilled with the tricks and performances of the movie animals there.

"Mary," the chimpanzee, came in for her share of praise when she delighted her audience by smoking a cigarette, a modern flapper-brushed her teeth, ate a banana and then picked her teeth with a tooth pick, and combed her hair. The leopards pyramided, the tigers jumped through a flaming hoop and over a high rope, the lions formed in groups, and one wrestled with his trainer and kissed him. Miss Elizabeth Steinberger, Jack Paschall, and Mrs. Wheeler took the children in cars and chaperoned the group.

Mother Tells How Sierra Madre Man Won the First Prize for Garden Spot

Mrs. Martha Anderson Says Fine Water Here Helped Son Develop Best Half Acre in All Southern California.

By Harry Burke

"Back in Illinois they called me Mat. My name's Martha, o'course, an' I'm in my seventy-eighth year. I don't expect to live so long, but—

"How long?" "Oh, I don't expect to stay morn'n a hundred. You see I'm ailin'. The doctor says I need an operation on my stomach, but they ain't agoin' to operate on me."

Mrs. Martha Anderson, mother of Evan Anderson, who won the first prize in the contest held by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the Los Angeles Times, for the best half acre farm in Southern California, sat at the door of her son's home at No. 388 North Sunnyside avenue, Sierra Madre, and looked out over the prize garden spot. "I ain't agoin' back there," said Mrs. Anderson. "I mean I ain't agoin' back to Illinois. They ain't got nothin' there like this. Why back there you can't sleep in summer fer the heat an' it's jest like Mrs. Thompson says, you freeze in the winter. Here they ain't one day in all the year I can't go out in the garden and pick somethin' ripenin'."

Water Works Magic

Mrs. Anderson is a little woman. But what she lacks in stature she makes up in vigor and up-and-ativeness. Bronzed and wrinkled in face, her hands showing the mark of toil, wearing an old-fashioned bonnet and a calico dress, she sits surveying the Aladdin-like fruitful Paradise her son's genius has wrought out of the virgin soil. It is her shrine, her religion—the horizon of her world rises and sets at the iron gate. With a she cat, a few chickens, and her garden, she lives in infinite contentment.

She lives almost alone. Her son is away on business excepting for the week ends. Sometimes he drops in for a night and spends an extra hour in the garden. Most of his work is done on Sunday. Mrs. Anderson does all the watering.

"The water is wonderful here," she said. "Yes, the water is a great help to us. Why you know the water we used to get out in that Hollywood district was so bad it used to make me sick when I washed the dishes."

"How long have you been in California?"

Her Philosophy

"I just been here six years. I lived back in Jacksonville, Illinois. Ever hear of Jacksonville? That's where all the deaf and dumb, blind and crazy people come from. Yes, that's right. They got asylums for 'em there. I got pretty lonely back there after my mother died in 1913. Evan wanted me to come out an' live with him, but I wouldn't do it. I'll tell you why."

Mrs. Anderson looked around the garden as if in fear of evesdroppers. "Scat," she said to her cat, and the cat jumped away. "I'll tell you," she said. "I ain't no fool. My wife gets along good with her mother-in-law. It isn't right to set in on your son's wife. Now a man will stand for his wife's mother, but it just ain't in a woman to get along with her husband's mother under the same roof. That's why I wouldn't come out to Evan."

"But you come." "Yes, I come when he was alone. I come when he lost her. He was alone, too. His brother had died, too—my other son—and he didn't have no one but me. My man had died, an' my mother, too, an' I didn't have no one but Evan. So I come, I did."

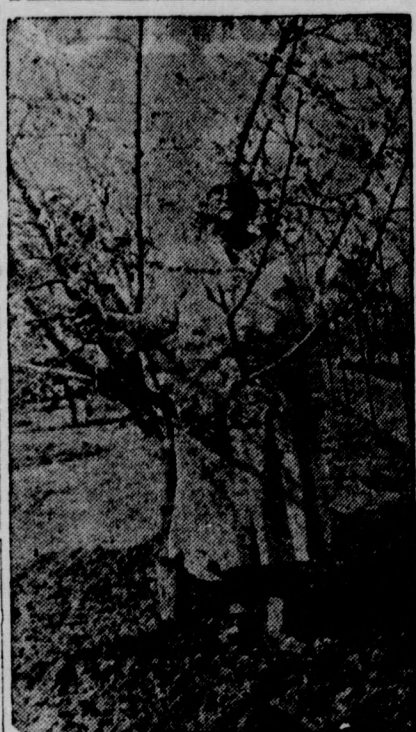

No More Coal

"It wasn't so easy makin' up my mind. August, it come along and the coal man came to me and he says: 'Mat, aint you better order a car 'o coal.' They all called me Mat back there. 'No,' I says, 'I ain't goin' to need no coal no more cause I aint goin' to be here.' Well, he wouldn't believe it an' he come back. They just wouldn't believe I was goin' to leave Jacksonville. Folks come to me at last an' said, 'Mat, you kin leave anything you want with us till you come back.' 'I aint goin' to come back,' I said and I come."

"My son he sold his place in Beverly Hills. He had two an' a half acres and gets sixty-one thousand dollars for it. All cash, too. He bought this corner lot four years ago last October. It was all weeds, just tangled all round, a few old orange trees not bearin', like them there in the next lot. He built this house and cleared the lot an' when he got it goin' he bought another lot, an' so we have a half acre. "My son he knows plants. He knows trees and the trees seem to know him. He made them old orange trees bear fruit. Folks around here came along and said to him he was foolish tryin' to make them bear good fruit but he just didn't pay no attention to them an' he was right. Everything that man does is right."

Won't Tell His Age

"How old is your son, Mrs. Anderson?" "He won't let me tell." "Where did he learn all about orchards and flowers?" "Just came to him. He is smart. When he don't know a thing he sets himself to know it and then he gets to know it. Why they told him he was foolish to use fertilizer around his peach trees. Look at them there peach trees. There's fourteen of 'em and you oughta see the fruit they bear.

"An' look at them avocado trees. There's twenty-five of them. My son says that he can make an avocado tree pay $100 a year if he only gets ten cents a pound. An' that's all he gets."

Mrs. Anderson reached in under a tree and picked up an avocado. It was big, ripe and luscious, about six inches long and at least four in diameter.

"That would weigh a pound. If you bought that in a market it would cost seventy or eighty cents."

Can Keep Oranges

"Ten cents is what the grower gets. They are all just as big as that an' some bigger. An' look at them oranges. You can keep them as long as you want if you take care of them. I save all the wax paper that comes on the bread and groceries. I wrap the oranges in the wax paper and put them in the cellar and they keep till you want them an' it don't make any difference how long.

"You notice we aint got any grass? I said to Evan he won't get no notice in the contest 'cause he don't have no grass. He won't have it. The old devil grass keeps him too busy. This way he can keep the yard clean and put all his time on the trees and rose bushes. Look at them rose bushes. You oughta see 'em when they are in flower. Evan knows how to take care of them. Every year he cuts them right down to the ground."

"How do you manage to take care of this whole garden?"

Not Much To Do

"Why, I don't do nothin' but the waterin', an' look after the chickens, do a little cleanin' up, keep the weeds outa the geranium beds out there along the walk, keep the house clean, get my meals, an' do a few other odd things round here. I aint so pick up as I used to be but I get round. We want to buy that piece next door but we are land poor just now."

"Hav'n't you enough to do now?" "I want to keep busy. Some times I aint got a thing to do but set here."

"Don't you ever want to rest?" "Rest aint settin' idle," she said, very earnestly. "Rest is gettin' somewhere you want to go. Doin' things is rest. Me, I'm gettin' along an' Evan aint gettin' no younger. Some day he can set here, too, an' live off the avocado trees alone. Why you know that man he sold to in Beverly Hills. Well, that man took the half acre an' built a house for his ownself and sold the other two acres for what he paid for the whole. An' that man says he got besides outa the avocado trees Evan left him more'n what he paid Evan for the ground. Evan can do somethin' like that right here—the water's fine."

Nancy Carroll's 30-Day Diet Calls For Candy

Employers of women, particularly young women, welcome the passing of the drastic semi-starvation 18-day diet once so popular in Hollywood. It is definitely being supplanted in public favor by the more rational 30-Day diet, which provides a balanced ration producing health and energy and at the same time bringing the willowy curves which are now the accepted mode. And the girls are pleased too, for the new diet is much more palatable and in practice is more comfortable. Mealtime is again something to look forward to.

The principal of the new diet originated by Nancy Carroll, is the retarding of the reducing process by extending the time to 30 days, and the reduction of the daily calories without eliminating the carbohydrates which are so necessary to health and vigor. One pleasant feature is the inclusion of sweets as an essential part of the menu. The "dieter" is permitted, and even encouraged, to eat candy every day, preferably as a desert after luncheon and dinner. Miss Carroll is one of the best known of the young movie stars.

The State Department of Public Health gave the official infant death rate for all California during 1929 as only 63.1 per thousand live births and disclosed that 35 municipalities, including San Francisco, Los Angeles and other centers of population, had even lower rates. Of these cities, South Pasadena, with a baby death rate of only 16 per thousand births, was first.

Towns of the Southland Dolling Up

Adopt Comprehensive Plans for Planting of Trees and Flowers

FOOTHILL CITIES LEAD

There is a movement throughout California and particularly in Southern California looking to the beautification of its cities and towns by well designed and uniform tree and flower planting. Apparently lacking any organized direction it is being taken up by municipalities everywhere through the City Councils, public schools, Planning Commissions, Chambers of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other civic organizations.

In some cities the movement looks to permanent beauty by the planting of parkways along the thoroughfares with perennial borders that will give bloom and color to the streets during practically all of the year. In other places the planting of wild flowers in vacant lots and along the parkways is being undertaken in a big way.

Many of the foothill communities have gone enthusiastically into a scheme to convert barren, unsightly lots along the main thoroughfares and especially the Foothill Boulevard, into perfect arcs of glory.

Glendora, Altadena, Redlands, Montrose, La Crescenta, Arcadia, La Canada, Claremont, and a score of other communities in Southern California have the work well under way. In some places public spirited citizens have provided the funds to pay the cost of clearing and leveling vacant lots and an appeal is being made to the owners of others.

In several cities, where there were no available city funds to defray the expenses, the city authorities have provided the necessary equipment and part of the labor, to prepare for the plantings. In Arcadia the city council referred the matter to the superintendent of streets with instructions to disc the ground wherever request is made with city labor so that the Rotary Club could plant the seed. Seed will be placed along Huntington Drive from the bridge to Double Drive. Glendora has already taken action. The Chamber of Commerce of that city has decided to promote the planting of every vacant lot along Foothill boulevard.

Germ Working Here
In the northern part of the state, Carl Purdy, known as "The Wild Flower Man" is travelling from town to town, stirring up the garden clubs.

The West Altadena Improvement Association has endorsed a plan to plant suitable ornamental trees in the parkways. Z. J. Hiatt has planted fan palm trees along his frontage on Castas avenue, and offered palms enough to plant the parkways on Figueroa drive.

Temple City has voted to plant the graceful cecropia palm along its two leading and intersecting thoroughfares and to intersperse the plantings with flowers. Up-land is planting along similar lines. The commission in Pasadena has designated half a dozen streets to be planted with Coconut palms on the theory that they give the "atmosphere" most suitable to this community, especially when framed with flowers.

One of the first letters to the new editor of THE NEWS was a suggestion that this newspaper undertake a campaign to have local vacant lots plowed under during this season so that weeds would go under and that seed might be planted so that flowers would come up to "make beautiful" Sierra Madre even more beautiful. But no organized campaign has been undertaken here.

NO MOLLYCODDLE IN THE MT. WILSON RACE

"I didn't know this thing was arranged for a lot of mollycoddles," snapped S. T. Stagg of Monrovia, veteran of the cinder path, mountain trails, cricket courts and what not. He had just appeared at the office of THE NEWS all togged out for the occasion and "ready to go" in the annual race up the Mt. Wilson trail last Saturday. He fairly bristled when his eye caught a bulletin announcing that the promoters had postponed the race until the 22nd because of inclement weather. The bulletin announced more than 10 inches of snow near the mountain top.

"My word," scowled Stagg, "postponing a race on account of a little rain and a bit of snow. Why, I've jogged that trail with snow to me knees and brushed four inches off me cap at the end of the course."

Much the heaviest rain of the season was falling last Saturday as Stagg spoke and the snow was swirling about the mountains in true blizzard fashion. Stagg was the champion foot racer of England 47 years ago when he took the title from Billy Snook in a 10-mile race. He has been running ever since.

Legion Loans Depend Upon People's Vote

Item Important to 5,000 Veterans Will Appear on Ballot This Fall

Five thousand California World War veterans will be loaned funds to buy farms and homes in this State under the Veterans' Farm and Home Loan plan, sponsored by the American Legion, if the voters approve of the proposed $20,000,000 bond issue which will go before them this fall.

State Adjutant James K. Fisk, of the Legion, has received information from George M. Stout, secretary of the State Veterans' Welfare Board, that hundreds of World War Veterans will be unable to borrow funds from the board unless the voters approve of the bond issue which will permit of the continuation of the work of the veterans' board without ultimate cost to the taxpayers of a single cent.

To date 34,500 veterans have filed applications for farm and home aid. Approximately 7,000 homes have been purchased by the veterans at an average cost of $4,738 while close to 300 farms, with an average cost of $5,484, have been purchased by the ex-service men through the use of credit extended by the State, according to State Adjutant Fisk.

The veterans have already borrowed $30,000,000 under prior bond issues and this sum has been expended under the loan plan in fifty-four of the fifty-eight counties of California. Los Angeles County leads with a total of $11,550,477 in veterans' loans. The entire amount of the funds advanced to the veterans will ultimately be repaid to the State, with interest, so the taxpayers will not be called upon to contribute a penny, it is promised.

Curves are being reduced and the road widened in the Coast highway from Los Angeles to San Francisco between Santa Maria and Arroyo Grande and careful driving is advised at this point by the Touring Department of the National Automobile club.

The trip from Los Angeles to Malibu Lake and return by way of Santa Monica, is one that offers the motorist a combination of valley, mountain and seashore scenery, according to the Touring Department of the National Automobile club.

All-year road has been kept open into Yosemite without a moment's closing. Sequoia and General Grant National parks are reached by good open road. Long Barn and Calaveras Big Trees are on the state highways that are kept open. However, wherever you go to enjoy the winter sports TAKE CHAINS ALONG, whether you need them or not. It's good insurance.

The correct way to clean the cooling system and the only really effective way, is to use a good cleaning compound followed by flushing with city water pressure impeded with compressed air. This can be satisfactorily accomplished only by removing hose connections and the thermostat to permit rapid flow of the flushing stream.

Few car owners have at their command the equipment necessary to do a really good job, and so in order to obtain the greatest cooling efficiency, it is wise to take your car to a competent service man who is equipped to do a good job for you.

A most interesting week-end trip which combines desert, mountain and coast scenery is the Imperial Valley loop-trip. It covers a total mileage of 470 miles and is reached via Riverside, Jack Rabbit Trail, Beaumont, or Redlands, Reservoir Canyon, Beaumont, Whitewater, El Centro, where the rich Imperial Valley reveals the great story of desert reclamation. From El Centro, which is 50 feet below sea level, the motorist climbs to an elevation of 4000 feet, on the Mountain Springs Grade to San Diego. From these heights, mystic Salton Sea is visible far in the distance, while snow capped mountain peaks are all about. At San Diego, the motorist turns north along the coast for the homeward journey and this drive along the blue Pacific.

Though the Federal income tax rate has been lowered, experts on collections in the local office of the collector of internal revenue estimate that the tax gatherer will pick up about $75,000,000 this year as against $70,000,000 for 1929.

TEAMS AGAIN WIN

The Pasadena track teams continue to gain new laurels. The upper division trimmed California Christian College, 75½-50½ in their last meet, while the lowers, who have had two encounters in the past week, were victorious in both, 20-13 over South Pasadena, and 67½-45½ over Glendale. The lightweights also defeated Glendale, 52½-51½, in one of the closest meets ever participated in by a Pasadena team.

DANCE ON TAP

A dance, climaxing a series of entertainments for the new students, will be held tonight at the Pasadena Golf Club. All new students are cordially invited.

ZERA opened up the meeting standing behind his new pulpit and a thumping wooden hammer and callin lustily for the color guard. Our handy man is usually Johnny on the job when Ezra shouts the order. What took place reminded me of my rooky days while learning to drill under the orders of some hard boiled duty Sergeant. Handy was standin like a man with sleeping sickness out in the middle of the floor when the formation order came, one of the guard on seain how tuing stood led the boy gently to the end of the hall, got the detail in marchin order. Bout this time Handy woke up and grabbed for his little whistle, gave two tweets and the processions on the way.

A new and highly important committee was appointed and will be known as the knife and fork committee. The sole function of this body is to see to it that we don't have to eat beans with our hands, Arab fashion.

PATHETIC
Mess Sergeant Harvey and his assistant, Hungry Ben, were supposed to put on the feed for the occasion. Harvey's memory was so short, or his Scotch nature so long, as a consequence our mess fund is several dollars to the good.

ENTERTAINING
Comrade Bob Carr was with us and gave a reading of one of his stories written for the Adventure Magazine. A whale of a story it was, full of that dry truthful humor characteristic of the author. A story of the Spanish American War day experiences and comradeship that only the soldier fully realizes. We hope to have Bob with us from time to time to give us the products of his rich mind and experience.

RUM DRIVER SOAKED

Fines totalling $500 were levied against James Elder, of Alhambra, by Justice W. Cloyd Snyder, of South Pasadena, for driving a car while under the influence of liquor. There were three charges against Elder for driving his car into a parked automobile at Fremont and Oak street. He was fined $50 for possession and $300 for reckless driving.

How Fast Can You Stop?

"No person shall drive a motor vehicle at a greater speed than will permit them to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead," says the Michigan law, which state abolished speed limits. The Eighteenth Annual Safety Congress, meeting in Chicago, called attention to the fact that real safety means not how fast you can drive, but how fast you can stop.

ST. PATRICK'S PARTY CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Margaret Robins and Mr. Marion Dillard were host and hostess at a combined St. Patrick's party and celebration of the eleventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Bradley, Tuesday night. The party was given at the home of Mrs. Robins' sister, Mrs. Mary Kiggins, of 51 Esperanza street. The early evening was taken up with 500. The first prizes, a beautiful orange and a flashlight, were won by Mrs. Sara McCloskey and Alfred Ludlow, while the second prizes, a large cut-glass fruit dish and a half-dozen linen handkerchiefs, fell to the lot of Mrs. Winfred Bradley and James Bradley. Mrs. Pete Ranahan and Louie Karger carried off the booty prizes.

At the conclusion of the card game the room was cleared and music and dancing were enjoyed. Carl Dillard, Louie Karger and Pete Ranahan played Irish melodies on the fiddle. At midnight, an appetizing supper was served, all the decorations being in green.

The following Sierra Madre guests were bidden: Mrs. Catherine Penders, Mrs. Sam Barnidge, Mrs. Sara McCoskey, Mrs. William Roe, Mrs. Emily Swink, Mrs. Mary Kiggins, Mrs. Margaret Robins, Misses Rita and Rose Kiggins, Miss Garnette Marsh, Mr. Louie Karger, and Messrs. Owen and Joe Kiggins. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peeley, Miss Ida Bruce, and Messrs. Bob Robins, Alfred Ludlow, Marion Dillard and Gail Griffin, all of Pasadena. Guests from other places were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dillard of Glendale, Miss Catherine McCloskey of Dorchester, Mass., Misses Margaret Keegan and Ruth Laird of New York, Mr. James Bradley of Canada, and Mrs. Roy Goodwin of Hollywood.

VISITING RELATIVES HONORED HERE

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Schiltz, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schiltz bade the following guests last Sunday night: Mrs. Kate Smith and Mrs. Zeeman, of San Bernardino; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dains, of Compton; Mr. and Mrs. John Daly and family; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wanek and family; Mrs. Pat Driscoll and Marie and Edmond Driscoll; Mrs. Carl Wanek, of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. D. Krier and Nick and George Krier, of Sierra Madre.

The party originally was planned for Brookside Park but inclement weather changed the Schiltz's plans. Five tables of bridge were played.

Mr. P. J. Schiltz, brother of W. J. Schiltz, and his wife left Wednesday for Denver, Colorado.

MISS EDNA GREEN ENTERTAINS

Tuesday, Miss Edna R. Green entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon at her home 66 East Laurel with covers laid for thirteen. A St. Patrick motif was used in the table decorations and about the rooms.

FAREWELL DINNER WEDNESDAY

Wednesday night, for 7 o'clock dinner, a few friends met at the J. L. Asbury home at 220 East Central to bid farewell to Mr. Asbury who was soon to leave for Utah. The table was decorated with varied color anemones with gold lighted tapers and nut cups harmonizing. Sweet peas, stocks, and iris were used about the room. The honor guest was the recipient of gifts appropriate to his departure. Bridge was played later in the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Emile Smith, Loren Pratt, Billy Asbury, Lester Asbury and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Asbury.

PROGRESSIVE DINNER ENJOYABLE

A most enjoyable progressive dinner party was held Saturday night at a group of friends homes, each course being at different homes. The first course was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Randolph Wood, 255 North Hermosa. The H. C. Liebman and Sam Grahams had the second course at the home of the former, 632 West Montecito. The third was at 40 North Hermosa, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Adams and the last course the guests were entertained at the Harvey Steinberger residence, 48 South Sunnyside, by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Steinberger and Dr. and Mrs. Woehler.

A St. Patrick motif was used as decoration in the homes. Musical numbers, dancing and cards formed the entertainment for the evening.

Assessor Makes It Easy

Sierra Madre's new deputy assessor, Henry J. Buckingham, has planned his work in this city with a view to the convenience of its people. At his request the City Council has assigned him office room in the City Hall where he may be found every Wednesday afternoon between the hours of 1 and 5 until the assessment is completed about July 1. During these hours he will receive the statements of persons who were not at their homes or places of business when he makes his regular calls. It will obviate the necessity of their making special trips to Los Angeles or Pasadena; also it will obviate the necessity of the assessor making arbitrary assessments from which appeals would later have to be taken in most cases.

MRS. C. L. TWYXCROSS HAS DINNER

Mrs. C. L. Twycross gave a joint birthday party at her home Friday evening honoring her husband's and Mrs. George B. Morgridge's birthdays which were on March 13th and 14th respectively.

The table was artistically decorated with the green and white motif, typical of St. Patrick, in favors, flowers, nut cups, candles and cake decorations. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. George B. Morgridge, and children Howard and Elizabeth, Mrs. Hortense C. Hill, Randolph and Richard Twycross and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Twycross.

Irish Games Played

At Eastern Star Party

The Order of the Eastern Star held a St. Patrick's Day party after the regular meeting on March 17.

Balloon golf, Irish washers, and a potato race were the games played and the crowd was very lively and gay. Led by the worthy matron and worthy patron the party marched to the dining room when delicious refreshments were served. The committee, Mrs. R. W. Finlayson and Mrs. Ralph Stewart, assisted by Miss Nan Wallace, had decorated the table elaborately with a large shamrock and shamrock favors were at each place. The Star points brought in a lighted birthday cake which was presented to the worthy patron, Paul H. Jones. He responded with hearty thanks and outlined a policy to increase friendliness among the members and chapters of the vicinity.

Irish songs were sung and all declared the party a success. Visitors from Alhambra and Pasadena added to the pleasure of the evening.

CONSERVATION CUP GOES TO CROWN CITY

At a directors meeting of the Angeles Forest Protective Association March 18, at the Gold Room of the Maryland hotel in Pasadena, Judge Harold Ide Cruzan presented the Los Angeles County Conservation association silver cup to the Pasadena Unit for their splendid cooperation in the past year. Harvey S. Bissell as donor, presented the James McLaughlin Bissell memorial medal to V. P. Vetter, of the Baldy District, U. S. Forest Service. This medal is awarded annually to the man performing the most outstanding service in forest fire work.

The association accepted the invitation of Mahew Davis of the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce to participate in the Fire Prevention Parade to be held in Pasadena April 28.

These officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year, president, H. S. Gilman; first vice-president, W. J. Ritzel; second vice-president, Worthy White; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Granger.

WAR VETERANS WARNED

World War veterans are warned that April 6 next is the final date for filing original applications for disability compensation, according to word broadcast over the state by Legion officials. Any person who served as an active member of the military or naval forces of the United States is entitled to compensation and medical treatment for a disability or disabilities resulting from injury or disease incurred during the period of the World War, or for an aggravation of a disability noted at date of entrance to service.

Million Dollars To Fight Forest Fires Favored by Hoover

The promised Federal forest fire protection, involving an expenditure of $100,000,000 over a twenty-one-year period, has a good chance to get through Congress this session. The House Committee on Agriculture has received it favorably and it has the support of President Hoover. Representative Englebright's bill proposes a new method of financing forest-fire protection. At present the Federal government spends $3,000,000 a year to put out fires but only $1,000,000 a year for fire prevention. He proposes to reverse the annual protection allowance to $4,500,000 a year for the next three years and $4,000,000 thereafter for twenty-one years.

Witnesses before the committee stated that 62 per cent of the national forests do not have adequate fire protection at the present time.

GOLD GROWS ON TREES

A sixty-million-dollar Valencia orange crop, conservatively estimated, is seen now by J. A. Stewart, general sales manager of one of the large distributing firms. He bases this pre-season estimate on the present condition of crop on the trees, the probable shipments to go between May 1 and November 15, and the returns received in other years. Navel oranges also are bringing good prices now, he said, with a generally better market on the larger sizes, and with r.o.b. returns about $1.25 the packed box better than in the same period last year.

Another mode of transportation of yesterday. Richfield Gasoline was not heard of at that time. In the past five years it has come to the front in double time, and today it is one of the world's finest gasolines.

Preventive Service.

Just what do we mean by that? Here is an example:

Look at your battery. If you see green corrosion around one of the terminals you need preventive service. We will take the battery out, clean off all corrosion, paint the battery holder, brighten the terminals and treat them with a chemical especially prepared to resist acid corrosion; test and water your battery—all for a charge of 50 to 75c, according to the condition of corrosion. This may save you a towing bill of several dollars.

PLANT GLADS NOW!

RULE IN SIERRA MADRE

It is more or less of an experiment to each one as to what to use as fertilizer for gladiolus in and around Sierra Madre, and as I have said before, if you have not already done so, consult your local florist or gardener and you no doubt will be able to find the right one for your place.

From my own experience in Sierra Madre the application of manure in the fall spaded well into the ground and left through the rainy months being turned over about two or three weeks before planting time seems to be very beneficial, the scrapings from the chicken yard are very good, but the utmost care should be exercised to see that it has been well washed down into the soil before planting and the ground should be worked every week or two well in advance of planting. I also find that after the plants have reached the height of fifteen to eighteen inches an application of manure on top of the ground so placed that the application does not touch the plants as to do so will burn the leaves and stems which will not have a very good effect on the blooms. I make it a practice to dig a small trench between the rows about three inches deep and place the manure in this trench running the water in the trench so that it will soak in the ground from both sides thus giving effect to the row on each side, this will be found to help considerably in or just before the blooming period. I do not think I shall say anything more about fertilizers but leave it to each of you to find what is best for your location.

Our next subject is one that I think should interest everyone as it deals with the diseases of Glads and is the thing that we all want to keep out of our Glad beds as much as possible.

Initiated in Public

A novel initiation was held in this city the other night at the Wistaria Theater when four new members were taken into the Palm Society of Whittier College. They were Louise Boyle, Carrilla Lintrell, Eleanor Wheatland and Ruby Faye Ball. The neophytes performed in various ways to win their membership. Louise Boyle sang "Swimming in the Bathtub"; Camilla Lintrell and Ruby Ball danced a singularly amusing spring dance, while Miss Wheatland sang "Tommy Tucker" to the entire satisfaction of the twenty-four old members present.

Chevrolet announces

A NEW

SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers are pleased to announce a new service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

- 1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate efficiently from the first mile of ownership.
- 2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.
- 3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.
- 4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.
- 5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

Col. MacQuarrie, Soldier of Fortune, Refuses to Look At Naked Vine

Sierra Madre Blossoms Noted All Over World, Declares Famous Traveler

By HARRY BURKE

Col. Hemingway MACQUARRIE rolled out of his Rolls peevish at a speck on his spats. "Hello, how are you? I'm very well, thank you," he started. "One moment, please?" Col. MACQUARRIE was not himself, a little bit off the top of his form, if you know what we mean. The tiny spot on his cream-colored spats was a false note in the harmonious and perfect haberdashery that marked his distinguished person from the tip of his pert chin to the toe of his shining boot. He put a foot on the running board and his gentlemen's gentleman removed the speck. Presto, the Colonel was himself again.

"So this is Sierra Madre," he began, swinging his pearl-handled stick in a wide arc. He was radiant now. "I'm glad I came, me boy. The air 'tis soft, the sky 'tis clear, the view below there lookin' up at ye like a child cryin' for the moon. Give 'em a round cracker, says I, and pull down the shade, an' go to sleep they will, thinkin' they have the moon. All the world is children."

A Soldier of Fortune

Col. MACQUARRIE is the world's greatest raconteur, traveler, adventurer—the comrade of kings, the pal of peasants, welcome in the White House or the watchman's shack—a picturesque, exhilarating post-graduate of a thousand chapters of human turbulence the universe over. Born in the poverty of a land-lord's wrath in the beleaguered days of Ireland's penury, he rose to wealth enough to spurn the purple. He has helped fight the wars of every nation at arms in the last half century, and, at times, yearning for the smell of powder, has made wars to order. He is as full of energy as Niagara, as beligerent as an Apache in war-paint, but as soft as a baby's bottom.

The Colonel is a gentleman, a scholar, and a mighty good judge of flowers. He is as familiar with the lilies as with Peter Doolley. But he loves to lapse into the vernacular. "I'm after havin' a very unpleasant start this mornin'," he said. "Tis a new man I have an' the rascal failed to see me pajamas properly pressed last night. An' so I spend a restless night. Then, this mornin' when I go to the phone to warn ye of my visit, what do I see on the telephone's face but Gladstone 2323? I hit the ceiling. I won't have Gladstone, I says to the central. 'Twas him I had many the fight with when he was premier of England an' me fightin' to free Ireland. 'We can't change,' says she, 'unless you move.' What centrals have ye, I ask, an' she reads the names till she comes to Dunkirk. Enough, says I, and there I move."

Japan Talks of Vine

"But enough of me own personal trials. I am here to see the Wistaria. In Japan I heard of your vine here. I have read of it in the leading horticultural journals. I have heard men and women all over the world speak of it. In Japan they envy you and the Sierra Madre vine is cause of a great deal of discussion. Two months ago, in London, Lloyd George shrouded with ill effect and the Duke of Manchester was actually chagrined because he could not equal the Sierra Madre at his villa on the Riviera. So, you see you have something here that is the talk of people everywhere. "They all ask me about it. You know I have always been intrigued by flowers, and nothing thrills me like the real Wistaria. I have seen it everywhere. Oft times I have gone far out of my way to see it at its best. I have never seen the Sierra Madre vine, of course, but I have worshipped with the Japanese at the roots of the best they have in Japan, an' I come here with the prayer that you have the best. When I left London Lloyd George made me promise that if I came to California I would not fail to see the Sierra Madre vine." The Rolls rolled down Central and turned into Auburn. The Colonel was eager, intense, as a man might be at the gates of paradise. The car approached the home of Mrs. Estella Fennell, and the famous vine.

Refuses to See Vine

"It is unfortunate," we said, "that you didn't time your visit two weeks later, when the vine will be in blossom." "What!" he exclaimed, and almost leaped from the car. "Stop!" he shouted to the driver. "No, no, no," he cried. "I can't look at a naked vine. 'Twould be a sacrilege." The Rolls turned off and wound around to Scenic Point and stopped at the pinnacle. The Colonel looked down over the polka-dotted valley.

"That," he said, "is something worth seeing." "I'm depressed," he continued. "I feel I have just missed a tragedy. It reminds me of an experience I had in Japan, an experience that demonstrated the character of the people, in some respects the most wonderful race in the world. They live in and are true to their traditions, an' that 'tis a phase of loyalty hard to beat."

"I remember well the day," said the Colonel, as he lighted a long cigar. "I was visiting Count Ushito, a distinguished old timer, who had been active in the modern development of Japan but who, like Ito, could not forget the old traditions of his fathers. He had one of the finest estates in Japan and, of course, Wistaria vines predominated. 'Tis the noblest of his wonderful vines and I stood entranced. The dense, drooping clusters of purplish rose flowers thrilled me. The vines followed the eaves all around the houses, in rugged twisted branches with oriental effect—yard-long clusters depending in solid linear masses."

Count Finds Tragedy

"Suddenly the count stopped. He stood transfixed, the picture of indignation and dismay. I followed his staring eyes and saw the cause. In one spot the vine was gasping for life, the gardener had failed to school the vine along the climb. It had drooped too much and was dying."

"A cry came from the lips of the Count. In a minute the guilty gardener was prostrate at his feet. The silence was potent with calamity. The count turned and walked slowly into the house. I stood alone in the garden for a few minutes. I saw the gardener rise and walk into the house, his head bowed. I followed him. I saw him advance toward the count. I saw Count Ushito standing before a table, a table bare save for a well, a table bare save for a well, a table bare save for a well. The Japanese use to enter Vallhalla. I saw the gardener walk to the table, prostrate himself, then rise and take the knife. He walked out and past me."

Silence Was Oppressive

"I sat down in the outer room and waited. I have never endured such intensive, oppressive silence. It lasted for a few minutes only, but it seemed an age. Then I heard a cry. It re-echoed all over the place. The Count came out and bowed to me. He didn't say what I'll have, but I did. It seemed to me the proper moment."

"I'll come back," said the Colonel, when the car reached the foot of the hill and turned toward Los Angeles. "Please tell the folks here not to let the Wistaria droop too much. Many, many thanks and s'long."

Engineer's Report Claims Big Saving On Water Contract

At an adjourned meeting of the city council City Engineer Earl J. Lynde's report on the water works improvement revealed the cost of 500 lineal feet of 18-inch pipe from Well Number 1 to the weir house to be $7.76 per lineal foot. The lowest bid on the same job was $11.88 per lineal foot; and the highest, $23.80 per lineal foot. The cost of putting in the job was $4.11 per lineal foot, a saving of $7.76 per lineal foot under the lowest bid made for the job, the report said. Vernon Udell, foreman, reporting on the progress of water-department improvement work under the 1928 improvement bond issue, stated that the work was going on most satisfactorily. He said that the taxpayers were saving from $5000 to $10,000 on extras which would have to be paid if a private contractor were on the job.

OFFER COUNTY NEW MOUNTAIN PARK SITE

That Los Angeles county may soon be the possessor of another mountain playground loomed as a possibility yesterday, when M. P. Carlock, president of the Arrow-Bear Lake corporation offered to present to the county board of supervisors a tract of land facing two small lakes midway between Arrowhead and Big Bear Lakes. According to Carlock, the land which would be given Los Angeles county, consists of 100 lake view lots, pier, boats, clubhouse furniture and other miscellaneous equipment. The land is bi-sected by the Rim o fthe World Drive.

WORLD'S OLDEST ART IS FEATURE TALK AT WILSON P. T. A. MEET

The progress of ceramics, from the crudest pottery of ancient times to the most delicate modern dinnerware, will be revealed at the meeting of the Woodrow Wilson P.T.A. Tuesday evening, March 25, when Harry Tuttle speaks on "The World's Oldest Industry."

Mr. Tuttle who is general manager of a big Los Angeles concern handling fine china, will illustrate his talk with samples of various wares, including the famous Lennox dinner set used at the White House. He will also give the history of various well-known names in this art, describing the early days of the industry when "china" was first introduced into England and was known as "Queensware" because the first orders were from the royal household.

This program is another Father's Night feature and will be presented by the men of the association. Supplementing Mr. Tuttle's address will be music by the school orchestra and solos by Messrs. Cummings and Gundry. Refreshments will be served and it is rumored that the men will also preside at this function. The gymnasium has been engaged for the occasion which promises to be of unusual interest. Anyone living within the area served by the Woodrow Wilson Junior High School is welcome.

Fire Flames

By One of the Boys

THERE are numerous things that have happened in firemen's circles, but the "feed" question is foremost in the "editor's" eulogy of our recent revel. Each successive meeting, night is bringing forth a more elaborate "spread," and to top things off, George Cox had to add ice cream to his already over-supply of meatloaf (hot), potato salad, potato chips, olives and numerous other insomnia producers.

The principal object of this mentioning of food at our meetings is to suggest that we set a limit. Personally, there is no limit—the more you bring, the more I eat. Just the same, it is beginning to be a task to prepare a feed, not mentioning the cost. What could be better than good sandwiches, a relish, some cake or pie and coffee, or any substitute drink? We could fill up on that, surely. Now, put it to a vote and vote this suggestion down.

The chief and a committee of the boys have purchased a body suitable for another fire-truck to be built soon. We expect to make enough shekels to help pay for this undertaking by parking cars at the Wistaria Fete next month. This truck is to be built to replace the "Goat," which is almost obsolete as well as old and gray and feeble. No wonder strangers laugh when they see this old Jenny as she puts along the road. I guess strangers aren't the only folks that laugh. How about the fellow that has to drive it. We might save it tho, and haul in a few voters at the next election.

Gordon McMillan, Louie Karger, Don Hosford, Ralph Stewart, Bob Babbitt, Jim Heasley, Harlan Geirbach, Joe Swanson and Gordon Brooks were all seated around the double table, with the expectation of twenty-one varieties of food to arrive when Jim Heasley was expelled from the

Storm Leaves Deep Snow on Mountains

Five Feet of the Beautiful 1970 ter Sports

Bringing in its wake the heaviest snow fall Southern California has experienced during the last eight years, the storm which swept over the San Gabriel-Sierra Madre Range over the week-end brought an average depth of 60 inches and from fifteen to twenty feet in the drifts at Big Pines Camp, according to Fred E. Wadsworth, superintendent of recreation camps and playgrounds. "The storm," he declared, "has brought renewed interest and enthusiasm in winter sports, as was evidenced by an attendance of more than 15,000 visitors Sunday at Big Pines. The snow fall continued for 44 hours, and during that time two 10-ton snow ploughs working triple shift kept the Palmdale and Cajon roads to Big Pines open for traffic.

"Winter sports, enjoying a popularity never before attained before in Southern California, are in full swing at the camp and there is a strong possibility of continuing them for another 30 days," Wadsworth said.

table on twenty-one different occasions for turning up the wrong suit. He once brought limburger cheese to the table and Joe Swanson objected strenuously.

Vern Udell came straggling in one evening at about 11:30 with the appearance of having suffered terrible warfare. As he rang the door bell to his home, his beautiful little wife came to the door and—nearly prostrated with anxiety—she cried, "Why, Verny dear, what's happened? You are all scarred up!" "Well, honey," sighed Vern, "you see, I made the motion that we have a ladies' night and the ceiling fell in on me." "Yes, yes, dear; I understand," she answered sympathizingly.

Average speed established above seventy miles an hour. Economy shown in every sort of performance in excess of twenty miles to the gallon. Reliability—over 1300 miles in twenty-four hours. Brake tests exceed police safety requirements by 40 per cent. Fast getaway from standing start to fifty miles an hour in 11 seconds; to sixty in 15 1/2 seconds; to seventy in 24 seconds.

Prove What Every Essex Can Do

Come take a ride yourself. Know by personal experience what this brilliant New Essex Challenger can do. Its exploits of Challenger Week have swept the country. Essex owners led the demonstration. They were so widely followed and aided by public participation that we are continuing the invitation to Ride—Ride—Ride!

Every locality now knows Essex for the accomplishment of some great feat Hills seldom attempted in any car were climbed by Essex in high gear. Remarkable economy proofs were established. New acceleration marks were made.

Most important of all—Challenger Week convinced motorists everywhere that Essex represents the greatest dollar for dollar value in car satisfaction that the industry offers. We will gladly give you a personal demonstration of any of these proofs which Essex has established.

It is noted about that one gallon of sage green paint (not being of the St. Patrick hue) was evenly distributed by six brushes March 18th, over a certain surface on the Masonic Temple where the sun has a habit of fading it. Nearly (?) 15 men donned overalls or work clothes (to be more explicit) and worked like Trojans.

Tuesday Harold Spears was given a little yellow ticket and fined $5 for driving the lumber truck a bit too rapidly. But that isn't all—Wednesday morning saw Harold in Pasadena trying to tell his troubles to a policeman. His own "whoopie car," as he calls it, had violated some little law or other. Perchance a demonstration of one-handed driving? Who knows?

signed to her fate. "Now I am a burden to others," she said, "and I do not care to live." Miss R. E. Moulton, a nurse, was called in by Dr. Lloyd Krebs, a week before the end. Up to the very last the patient's mind was clear. The day before her death she insisted upon sitting up in bed and combing her own hair. There were three people at the bedside when the curtain finally fell. Mrs. Mayberry, Miss Lindley, and the nurse. Mrs. Jones said she wanted to get up.

"What don't you let me get up? What does this mean?" she asked.

"You are too weak to get up," Mrs. Mayberry told her.

The old spirit that had driven her, on through more than four score years of strenuous endeavor was suddenly summoned for one last effort. Mrs. Jones struggled to a sitting position. She asked for a drink of water.

"I want a tooth brush," she said. She brushed her teeth, relaxed on the pillow, closed her eyes and was no more.

Central Ave. Extension Is Ready to Go

Minor Details Only Stand in Way of Starting the Work

George K. Hooper, city engineer-street superintendent of Pasadena, has just announced that proceedings for the extension of Central Avenue, in Sierra Madre, to connect with North Huntington drive and Colorado boulevard in Pasadena, will be ready to start within the next two or three weeks. He said that Pasadena had granted temporary jurisdiction to Sierra Madre to do the work.

City Engineer Lynde said today that the work on the Central Avenue extension could not be started until the easements and other legal obstacles were straightened out. It would then take several weeks to advertise for bids.

At a conference in Los Angeles this week between county and city officials and representatives of various civic organizations, it was decided to push the improvement of Foothill boulevard. State and county funds already appropriated will be used on the project. The Colorado street opening to Arcadia, will be delayed for a few months, for the reason that funds available are only sufficient to take care of one improvement. The decision in favor of Foothill was taken because the county insisted that unless the funds already allotted were used they would be employed for highway purposes elsewhere in the county.

Foothill is to have a 56-foot paving west of Santa Anita avenue (Double Drive) to the west city limits of Arcadia, and east of Santa Anita avenue to Santa Anita wash it is to have a 70-foot paving, then east of the wash to the Monrovia line a 60-foot paving. At the Pasadena end it will probably be connected with Walnut street.

FAVORITES LISTED FOR LYRIC BILL

For the coming week the Lyric theater of Monrovia, boasts a line-up of pictures of uniformly high quality. On Friday the twenty-first and Saturday the twenty-second, the features will be "The Mysterious Island," Jules Verne's old story produced in Technicolor and full sound. Following this from Sunday the twenty-third to Wednesday the twenty-sixth will come that universal favorite of the stage, "No, No, Nanette," also in Technicolor. A rare treat will be offered lovers of good acting from Thursday, the twenty-seventh to Saturday the twenty-ninth when George Arliss will appear in the talking picture, "The Green Goddess."

Manager Myers of the Lyric is pleased to announce after receiving over two hundred phone calls from his Sierra Madre patrons, that "The Sky Hawk," will be given in his theater April 5, 6, and 7th. A midnight matinee of the performance will be a special feature Saturday night, April 5th.

"The Sky Hawk" is the picture filmed on the Stocker Estate for six weeks last summer in which local residents were interested. It was the first movie taken of a Zeppelin raid during the World War. The picture supposedly taken in England, had its scenes so realistically done that many a Sierra Madrean had sleepless nights during the "shooting" of those scenes.

Church Property Not Exempt Unless Used for Worship

Attorney General U. S. Webb, of California, has decided that church property for which complete tax exemption is granted, must be used "solely and exclusively for religious worship."

He agreed with District Attorney H. J. Dublin of San Luis Obispo county that a building adjoining the Presbyterian Church at San Luis Obispo does not come within the exemption clause of the law. The building is said to be used for Sunday school meetings, banquets, musical entertainments, Boy Scout gatherings, church business meetings and gymnasium purposes.

CITY'S NEW TALKING SCREEN DRAWS WELL

The Wistaria Theater with its new sound equipment has several outstanding offerings for the coming week. Tonight and tomorrow night Will Rogers' "They Had to See Paris," will continue to delight local audiences. Sunday and Monday, the 23rd and 24th will usher in an all-star feature, "In Old California." In it the romantic colorful days of the Golden State are portrayed.

"The Lost Zeppelin" is billed for Thursday and Friday of next week. This picture is full of thrills and should please the fans who love action and motion every minute.

Mr. Coburn is pleased with the reception given his new sound equipment and feels well repaid for the trouble and expense he underwent in getting it. He promises the best thrills obtainable and has an impressive list of bookings for his screen that talks as faithfully and satisfactorily as those in the country's largest theaters.
